It seems that last year the girl rent from this city to Nashville and took up with Casey. She got into a row with another girl, cut her with a knife, and was arrested and compelled to give a small bond on the charge of carrying concealed weapons, Casey and others going on her bond. She and Casey did not get along very well together and she skipped away to Louisville with another man, who recently brought her back to Memphis. Casey wanted her back, so he got out a capies from the Nashville court and came here to arrest the girl and carry her back by force of law. He visited her in the baguio, but she refused to have anything to do with him, so he went to the sheriff's office, exhibited his cspins, and wanted to seize her and take her to Nashville. The sheriff, seeing that he being a very interested party, sent a deputy, who brought the girl to his office.

Captain hinfrock, of that place, tendered them the hospitality of his house, where they remained for a week, when expressing a fear of pa-rental pursuit, they left on the evening of Sunday, the twenty-third, expressing their intention to go directly to Hernande, there to self their horse and take the train for Little Rock. About 9 o'clock that night one of the captain's colored tenants missed a spring-wagon and harness and some bedding. A pursuit of the couple being organized, it was found they had gone cast, instead of in the direction of Hernando, and they were overhauled the next day between Collierville, in this county, and Moscow, Fayette county. Abe Massey, as he called himself, and the young girl were brought back to Lewisburg, and after an examination were ordered to the Hernando jail to await trial in March for grand larceny. A citizen recognized the girl as an orange vender from this city.

Meanwhile Ballew visited them, expressed sur-prise and sympathy, and voluntered many surmises and suspicions touching the lamentedbut absent horse. Carter & Sons, never-theless, ceased not to seek the missing ani-mal, and at last, on Saturday, found the horse in the possession of a man named Mr. Harris, near Raleigh. Mr. Harris at once explained that he had bought the horse of Reaching his premises, they were about to make the usual return of no property found, when the colored man Carter pointed suggestively to the barn, and uttered the prophetic declaration that Ballew was on the premises. To the barn they go, and, having ransacked the first story, nothing found, the colored man Carter as-cended to the hay-loft. As soon as he snuffed the air, he exclaimed: "I have a strong scent of cologne." This emboldened and encour-aged his investigations, for he was informed that Ballew was distinguished for an inor-V. THE CITY DEBT.

Captain Meeting of Citizens to Consider the Set tlement Offered as a Bonus to the Bondholders of the Old City of Memphis-The Creditors

> Receiving More Than They Paid for the Bonds-Resolutions Adopted Expressive of the Sense of the People-Plain Talk.

At the Greenlaw Operahouse, last night some five hundred representative citizens ap-peared in response to the following call for a meeting published in the journals of this city: There will be a meeting of the citizens of Memphis at the Greenlaw Operahouse at 7:30 o'clock on Monday night, January 31, 1881, for the purpose of considering the settlement of the old city debt pending before the legislature.

best thing in Memphis—real estate—and that had depreciated. If that is not worth more than twenty-five cents on the dollar than it was years ago why should they not consider the value of the city debt. Capital is a jeal-ous master, and the question with the bond-holders is what is your real and personal property able to pay. He came here not to speak, but to hear others speak. [Applause.] THE SECRETARIES. On motion the representatives of the city press were appointed to act as secretaries. COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS, Mr. I. N. Snowden moved that a committee by the courts, will wind up this fiasco in a of fift of lifteen be appointed, of which J. W. Clapp, would be chairman, to draft resolutions expressive of the wishes of the meeting. The motion was put and carried unanimously.

Chairman Smith appointed the following committee of fifteen: Messrs. J. W. Clapp, chairman; S. H. Brooks, R. R. Church, W. L. Marsh, E. Lowenstein, P. M. Winters, John W. Voegeli, Napoleon Hill, J. J. Busby, W. H. Bates, W. P. Proudfit, Dennis Smith, W. A. Bickford, Joseph Bruce, J. R. Miller, John W. Dillard. On motion Mr. I. N. Snowden was added to the committee.

COLONEL GANTT'S REMARKS. On motion Colonel George Gantt was invited to address the meeting during the absence of the committee on resolutions He expressed his thanks for the call. The night was gloomy, but the people turned out. They had seen the heavens overcast before. They came in sunshine and storm. They Mr. James Hunter, deputy clerk of the criminal court, was not on duty yesterday, he being confined to his room by sickness.

We did not believe this. We secured a law establishing the Taxing-Disthe Theater, and enjoying Sharps and Flats, as presented by Robson and Crane and their The supreme court of Tennessee decided in apporting company. mayor of Memphis and a city attorney ap-peared in his office and stated that a con-tractor of the Nicolson pavement had attempted to bribe aldermen and councils to vote for the Nicolson pavement fraud. A ontractor was indicted, tried before the criminal court and found guilty, and his bondsman was T. E. Brown, the Nicolson pavement man. The briber left and has not no more for the city bonds than twenty-five cents on the dollar; many of them not that much. This amount we offer them; but life omes first, health comes second, and the ondholder next. [Applause.] COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS REPORT. At this point Colonel Clapp, chairman of the committee on resolutions, appeared on the stand and presented the following series resolutions, which were received with apoped to die able to pay his debts, but he leave to say that such is not the case. time would come when the debtor should say to the greedy cormorant of a creditor, "Thus far thou shall go and no further." These men were more remorseless than the pestilence, than yellow-fever, and they should wait until God had given the people a chance for a living. These creditors had shown themselves destitute of the common feelings of humanity. The cormorant creditors were tightening their grasp around the city while pestilence prevailed within. The new form government has been a success, and now her cities were following the example set by Memphis. [Applause.] Wheneas, We the citizens of Memphis, in ma meeting assembled, for the purpose of consider the subject of settling the debt of the late muni-pality of the city of Memphis, have adopted a following resolutions as expressive of our views Resolved, That our object and motive in establishing the Taxing-District of Sheiby county v not to reput date an existing Indebtedness, but relieve ourselves of a cumbersome, inefficient at expensive numicipal government, and to substitute therefor a simple, cheap and efficient syste of government, with a view not only to arreand avoid an extravagant and corrup expenditure of money, but to put on selves in a proper sanitary condition by paving on streets, inauguranting a thorough system of drain ago and sewerage, and such other measures at were required to ward off the ravages of a pestilence that had more than decimated our population and entailed a pecuniary loss of millions of dollars, and when these objects were accomplished. It was our desire and expectation to settle the old inbilities upon terms honorable and just to all concerned; such settlement, however, to be separate and distinct from the new government.

RESOLUTIONS DISCUSSED,

Chairman Smith said the resolutions were before the house, and those presenting them cordially invited discussion. Mr. Ed Shaw desired to learn something a to the provisions of the bill prepared for the legislature. He did not think the people of Memphis were now able to pay twenty-five cents. [Applause.]

Colonel H. C. King was called upon to express his views. He stated that he desired not to make a speech. He came as a taxpaying citizen of Shelby county. The question before the meeting was business that concerned the tax-payers and their families. He cerned the tax-payers and their families. He had some views which he desired to express.
The question was, will the people of Memphis say to the bondholders that they shall receive twenty-five cents and no more on the dollar?
He had been away for some time, but having returned he discovered that the people of Memphis were in a bad financial condition. He had investigated this matter and found but little beginness treatments in a retail way little business progressing in a retail way. Hundred of houses were advertised for rent, and tax-notices were served everywhere. S would have to send a few more bills, he had not the money to pay. He had been at work all the time, but his earnings were all the time, but his earnings were not clock on Monday night, January 31, 1881, for the purpose of considering the settlement of the old city debt pending before the legislature.

At the appointed hour, Messrs, Josiah Patterson, J. R. Godwin and J. M. Goodbar appeared on the stand and were received with applanse. As they did so Tom O'Sullivan's Little Democrat gun fired salutes on Second street in front of the building.

Mr. Josiah Patterson stated the objects of the meeting to consider the proposition made by the people of Memphis as to compromising with the bondholders. The proposition was just and honorable, and he called the meeting to order.

promising with the bondholders. The proposition was just and honorable, and he called the meeting to order.

Mr. P. M. Winters moved that General W. J. Smith be made permanent chairman of the meeting. The motion was put and carried amid applianse.

CHAIRMAN SELECTED.

General Smith, on appearing on the stand, expressed his surprise at being called upon to preside, because he saw before him many gentlemen more able than he to preside. He was not fully advised as to the object of the meeting. He came here to consider the best manner of settling the debt of Memphis. He never owned a bond, but he owned the next best thing in Memphis—real estate—and that for dollar to the bondhold Colonel C. W. Heiskell, city attorney, said the Taxing-District government had nothin to do with the settlement of the old city deb He would never agree to give the creditor of the old city government an opportunity to put a mandamus on the people of Memphis for any purpose. The old taxes are to be turned over to the bondholders, and the sum of twenty-five cents proposed to be paid to the creditors will give them sixty cents on the dollar for bonds which they paid but twenty or thirty cents for. [Applause.] Mr. Ed Shaw said the plan devised to e I. N. Snowden moved that a committee cape from the old debt was the new form of an be appointed, of which J. W. Clapp the Taxing-District government. The mer

Mr. Heiskell remarked that the credito had gone to the legislature and sought to enforce the payment of dollar for dollar, and the question was he thought, to pay the amount demanded by the creditors or the twenty-five cents on the hundred dollars pro posed by the people of Memphis. Mr. Minor Meriwether explained that the question was to make some provision to pay he debt of $6,000,000 which hangs over our
